DEMOCRATS ALL BOOSTING LINK

Paele Offers Defense Against Attack On Him

The Democrats seem to be centering their fire on the office of Delegate to Congress, at least, at the rally of the Democrats at Atkinson park at Kakaako, almost every speaker at some stage of his speech gave the Great Link a send-off. This may be either caused by the fact that the Democrats have drawn great hopes from the report that Link has the Big Island vote cinched and they think that he may be pulled through by strenuous work on their part, or it may be merely a nice manifestation of gratitude for the golden eggs which Link is said to be laying in the heretofore rather empty nest of local Democracy.

Considering the distance of the place from the centers of habitation the crowd which attended was quite a large one, but the accommodations were of the scantiest kind.

Ioela Kiakahi, the lively gentleman who almost broke up the Democratic Territorial Convention, called the meeting to order, whereupon Albert Kauwe took the chair.

Robert Pabau, one of the strongest Hawaiians on the Democratic Representative ticket from the Fourth District, opened the ball with the usual promises of serving the best interests of the people should he be elected.

Willie Hall of "hacks and beer" fame, followed. Willie, possibly with a wisdom acquired from experience, admonished the audience to provide for the future of their children, and this, he reminded them, could best be done by getting them public lands, which would surely be forthcoming should the Democrats be victorious.

If T. Moore, an aspirant for Senatorial honors, spoke in part as follows:

"It has been urged by the Republicans," he said, "that if you elect a Democratic Senate and Legislature it will greatly embarrass Governor Frear. Now Governor Frear is a good man, but he is a Republican. And if it would embarrass him to have a Democratic Senate and Legislature, think how much more it would embarrass us if William Jennings Bryan should be elected President, and this Territory should fail to elect a Democratic Legislature! And William Jennings Bryan is going to be elected in November. The leading Republican newspapers all over the country show that they expect it. And when he is elected and appoints a Democratic Governor of this Territory that Democratic Governor ought to have a Democratic Senate to support him.

"The Republicans say that the Democrats have never done anything for the people. Well, let us see. The three candidates of the Democratic party for Senator are E. M. Watson, Frank R. Harvey, and myself. E. M. Watson was one of those who framed the County Act. Frank R. Harvey has been a member of the Board of Supervisors for two years, and he has been helping to give you a good County administration. I was a member of the Board of Supervisors for eight months, and you know that I helped give you roads and other public improvements and work on them.

"The Democratic party in this Territory has made good on every occasion where it has had the opportunity. We present a ticket that is worthy of your support from top to bottom. Vote for it from top to bottom, and the party is pledged to carry out through the officers it elects the pledges of the party platform, which are in the interests of the people."

Ed. Ingham gave McCandless a fine character, and spoke of him as the only guide to the promised lands. He also spoke in a general way of the rest of the candidates, and admonished everyone present to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

J. K. Paele made quite a lengthy speech naming all the candidates from the top to the bottom of the ticket, and giving each one of them an oratorical bouquet. Link, of course, got the most praise, and as a defense of the shots which have been fired at the Walkane statesman with regard to his large land holdings, the speaker stated that a large number of Hawaiians were living on his land without paying him a cent for rent.

J. C. Anderson, who is after the Auditor's office, said briefly that he was a poor man, while his opponent, James Bicknell, was rich and would have the support of the rich element of the community. Anderson has made a hit as a linguist, and the crowd insisted that he speak in Hawaiian, English, and Chinese, which he did, although there was not a Celestial in sight.

Among the other speakers of the evening were: Joe Fern, candidate for Mayor; Charles Girdler, Duke H. Kahanamoku, David Kaeka, and E. K. Rathburn, candidates for the Legis-
